DEMOCRACY AND TRUST: A LINK THAT NEEDS TO BE REDISCOVERED

Ore 15:00 Plenary

In collaboration with Generali

Patrick J. Deneen, Professor of Political Science at University of Notre Dame; Luciano Violante, Emeritus President of the Italian Chamber of Deputies. Introduced by Andrea Simoncini, Vice President of the Meeting for Friendship Amongst Peoples Foundation, Full Professor of Constitutional Law at the University of Florence.

Democratic systems find themselves confronted with a series of challenges that go beyond methodological questions, but concern substance. There exists a widespread accusation that, beyond appearances, politics is increasingly run by self-referential elites who exist in contrast with new models of representation. At the same time, there is a demand from growing segments of populations for more authoritative governments, endowed with greater powers to confront problems arising at the social and economic levels. These and several other trends are often contradictory to each other, but share the common denominator of a lack of faith in representative democracy as it was developed in the post-war period. A dialogue on the real and perceived problems and opportunities of representative democracy has become more necessary than ever.

GREEN ECONOMY, GREEN WELFARE?

Ore 15:00 Sustainability and Subsidiarity

In collaboration with Aci, Ferrovie dello Stato Italiane and Enel

Marco Brun, CEO Shell Italia; Massimo Bruno, Head of Sostenibilità and Institutional Affairs Italy Enel; Ermete Realacci, President of Fondazione Symbola; Paolo Vestrucci, CEO Nier ingegneria spa. Introduced by Emmanuele Forlani, Director of the Meeting for Friendship Amongst Peoples Foundation.

"Facing the climate crisis with courage is not only necessary but it is also a great opportunity to bring our economy and our society to a more human scale and therefore to make them more future-oriented. It is a huge challenge requiring the contribution of the best technological, institutional, political, social and cultural energies. Everyone's support is needed. In 2008 only specialized magazines talked about circular economy, today Italy is the European country with highest share of waste recycling (urban, industrial, etc.): 79%. In the Italian economy the use of secondary materials resulting from this recycling leads a potential saving of 21 million tons of oil equivalent and 58 million tons of CO₂: equal to 12.5% of the domestic demand for energy and 14.6% of emissions". (extract from the Symbola and Unioncamere Manifesto).

Introduced by Marco Maltoni, Director of the Unit of Palliative Cares, Forlì and Medicina e Persona Association. "What is man that You are mindful of him?". This is the underlying question, usually asked by people to other people, of the testimonies of three care professionals, apparently dealing in their daily lives with very different situations but all related to the main purpose of healthcare: taking care of every single moment in a person's life. They will talk about themselves: - the international promoter of comfort care, neonatal palliative care for babies, whose life expectancy is extremely short, and their families; - the head of the I.C.U. network of Lombardy region and beyond who, during the Coronavirus crisis, did is best to admit to I.C.U. the largest number of patients in the most suitable way; - a major member of the Dutch Ministerial Commission dealing with the processing and execution of euthanasia requests, who resigned when he realized that euthanasia, even though at first he considered it as a possible "last resort solution", had become the default way to die. Personal, painful, unpredictable, bleeding pathways sharing a common trait: being personally open towards others, to mystery and, for many, to the Mystery.

NOT TOO MUCH TO ASK – NO ES DEMASIADO PEDIR – NON È CHIEDERE TROPPO. SERIES OF CONVERSATIONS

Ore 17:00 Plenary

José Ángel González Sainz, Writer interviewed by Fernando De Haro, Journalist. This session is part of a series of three video interviews with José Ángel González Sainz, Maurizio Maggiani e Cornel West-Robert George. These interviews were recorded in the places where the guests live and work in order to try to discover their relationship to reality and to delve into the questions resulting from this relationship, especially in a moment that is so extreme for all humanity. Is it possible to move from a closed and rigid ideology to a rediscovery of reality as an opportunity and as a calling? Who are the people – teachers and friends – who can provide support during this human adventure, without distracting from the essential questions, and instead continuously reawakening them thanks to their presence? Finally, which contribution can an author make to the reconstruction using the tools of his trade? The title is based upon the lyrics of a famous song by Bob Dylan, “Floater”, «Sometimes somebody wants you to give something up / And tears or not, it’s too much to ask».

DEVOID OF WONDER, WE REMAIN DEAF TO THE SUBLIME

Ore 19:00 Plenary

In collaboration with Intesa Sanpaolo

Joseph Weiler, University Professor at NYU Law School and Senior Fellow at the Center for European studies at Harvard. Introduced by Bernhard Scholz, President of the Meeting for Friendship Amongst Peoples Foundation.

The title of this year’s Meeting, “Devoid of wonder, we remain deaf to the sublime”, is a quote by the Jewish philosopher Abraham Joshua Heschel (1907 Warsaw 1907- New York 1972) who invites us to look at reality with an amazement that opens up the way for the research of the sublime, of the meaning of things, of the meaning of living. As we speak we want to encourage the very many people who are “devoid of wonder” right now, to follow up this invitation and let them be guided by Professor Joseph Weiler, who has already graciously joined the Meeting several times, sharing his thoughts about justice and freedom as well as his interpretations of the Bible and his insights on Hebraism.

Introduced by Davide Perillo, Editor-in-chief of Traces Magazine. For months the lockdown has forced us to shift our life to the digital level. Luciano Floridi has been talking about the concept of “onlife” for a while, the idea of combining both the “online” and the “offline” dimensions, both the digital and the analogic levels. During these months the importance of meaningful relationships, of enjoying the physical presence and not the virtual one (as on social media), has become a key element of awareness on which to base our present and lay the foundations of our future.

Introducing Tommaso Agasisti Professor of Public Management at "Politecnico di Milano" Education and training have always been two sectors in which the intergroup for subsidiarity has been committed. In the last year, two legislative proposals have been presented. One for the experimentation of the teaching of non-cognitive skills in middle schools and one for the training of human capital by companies. The covid 19 emergency has (if it was still necessary) demonstrated the centrality of education and training for the life and development of a country. History showed that after the major crises, whether it was a war, an epidemic or a collapse of the economy, education and training were the investments that built a lasting reconstruction. It is not just about schools and their autonomy, it is about encouraging and supporting the free initiatives that are born in society at every level, because education is a permanent fact.

How is finance reacting to the damage caused by the Covid-19 pandemic? Under pressure from this new crisis, the world of finance is called to consider the currents that led it to the great crisis of 2008. Today, more than ever, we must urgently understand how finance's relationship with the real economy is changing, and what its contribution to sustainable development can be. Furthermore, we must consider its relationship to everyday basic realities, and how sensitive it is to a subsidiary culture. These are some of the topics to which the new Subsidiarity Foundation report is dedicated.

Such hope often ends up in disappointment, resignation, violence or more sophisticated new projections. Gianluca Comin, President and Founder of Comin & Partners. With the explosion of the pandemic, there exploded another problem: management of the healthcare system. Infectious diseases such as Covid-19 recognize no national or international borders, and cannot be handled by 20 independent and self-referential healthcare systems. On the other hand, the idea of implementing centralized top-down management would lead to inefficiency, a lack of flexibility, and an inability to read the situation. This problem extends beyond Covid-19, becoming a general public concern, particularly if one thinks that a large portion of regional expenditure goes towards healthcare. What are the future prospects of this issue? We discuss with some of the institutional protagonists, regional presidents.

LIVING BEING. VIRUSES IN THE HISTORY OF LIFE ON EARTH

Ore 11:00 Living Being

In collaboration with Camplus

Enzo Tramontano, Professor of Microbiology and Virology at University of Cagliari. Introduced by Andrea Caprotti, Student of Physics at University of Milan.

Viruses are living entities that, upon entering a host cell, take possession of it and exploit it to replicate themselves, in some cases leading to the death of the infected cell and also of the entire host organism. But where do viruses come from? How can they be blocked? Do they play a role in the ecosystem of our planet? Did they evolve with us or did we evolve with them?

THE FUTURE OF HEALTHCARE SYSTEMS AFTER THE PANDEMIC

Ore 13:00 Care and Health

In collaboration with Foundation for Subsidiarity and Università Cattolica

Paul Barach, Professor Wayne State University e Lecturer Thomas Jefferson University; Luis Eugenio de Souza, Professor of Public Health at University of Bahia; Walter Ricciardi, Vice President World Federation of Public Health Associations. Introduce Giorgio Vittadini, President of the Foundation for Subsidiarity. Moderated by Luigi Cammi, Meeting Salute.

The challenge posed to humanity by Covid-19 is still present. We seek a vaccine, or at least a cure which would limit the damage the disease can cause. In the meantime, a significant debate is underway on the future of different worldwide healthcare systems. How must they change to best protect their citizens? How can they be financed? How can their clinical and epidemiological components best be integrated? How should an international control room be configured? What are the respective roles of medicine and hospitals in any given area? These are some of the questions which will be considered in this debate between international experts in the field.

TOWARDS A SUSTAINABLE ECONOMY. THE CHALLENGE OF RECOVERY

Ore 15:00 Plenary

In collaboration with Intesa Sanpaolo, Eni and Enel

Gigi de Palo, President of Forum of Family Associations; Vito Grassi, Vice president of Confindustria; Roberto Gualtieri, Italian Ministers of Economy and Finance; Giorgio Merletti, President of Confartigianato; Luigi Sbarra, Deputy General Secretary of the Cisl Union. Introduced by Guido Bardelli, President of Cdo.

Restarting the Italian economy is a demanding challenge especially considering not only the deep and still partially open wound left by the 2008 crisis, but also the very high public debt already existing before the beginning of the pandemic. How do companies, together with trade unions, face the challenges of this restart, with national and international markets that are even more uncertain and unpredictable? Is it possible to seize this opportunity to generate a more sustainable economy? Will the new ways of working, which have been accelerated during the lockdown months, months of COVID-19 lockdown, be used as an opportunity even for families? And more generally: is the economy we are rebuilding really at the service of families and of future generations?

FOOD, HEALTH, ENVIRONMENT: LET'S VOTE WITH THE PURSE

Ore 15:00 Sustainability and Subsidiarity

Leonardo Becchetti, Full Professor of Political Economy at University of Rome "Tor Vergata"; Alessio Mammi, Councillor for Agriculture of the Emilia Romagna Region; Andrea Valenziani, President of the InCampagna Network. Introduced by Camillo Gardini, President of the Agroindustrial Board. "Voting with the wallet" is the intriguing message launched by economist Leonardo Becchetti. It is one of the possible attempts to conceive a new kind of political participation with a capital "P", just to quote the famous words by Pope Francis. Citizens can go beyond their simply passive voting role, they can also play an active consumers' role through their consumption habits. Citizens' purchasing behaviours, their consumption or saving patterns can lead to an importation distinction of economically and socially responsible companies.

PUBLIC HEALTH: CAN PUBLIC AND PRIVATE BE INTEGRATED?

Ore 17:00 Plenary

In collaboration with Università Cattolica

Angelino Alfano, President of Gruppo San Donato; Roberto Bernabei, President of Gemelli a Casa; Claudio Cricelli, President of SIMG; Roberto Speranza, Italian Minister of Health; Marco Trivelli, General Director for Healthcare of Lombardy Region. Introduced by Mattia Altini, Health Director of Ausl Romagna.

One of the most controversial debates arisen during the Covid-19 emergency was about the role of private healthcare. It has been said that the contribution of private healthcare in helping to cope the emergency was minimal, that it focused mostly on more profitable services. As it is often the case the debate was extended to the much broader issue of a mixed public-private healthcare model, within the national healthcare service. Under what conditions might a mixed public-private healthcare model serve the common good? This topic will be discussed with managerial representatives of both the public and private sectors.

Maurizio Maggiani, Writer interviewed by Roberto Fontolan, Journalist. This session is part of a series of three video interviews with José Ángel González Sainz, Maurizio Maggiani e Cornel West-Robert George. These interviews were recorded in the places where the guests live and work in order to try to discover their relationship to reality and to delve into the questions resulting from this relationship, especially in a moment that is so extreme for all humanity. Is it possible to move from a closed and rigid ideology to a rediscovery of reality as an opportunity and as a calling? Who are the people – teachers and friends – who can provide support during this human adventure, without distracting from the essential questions, and instead continuously reawakening them thanks to their presence? Finally, which contribution can an author make to the reconstruction using the tools of his trade? The title is based upon the lyrics of a famous song by Bob Dylan, "Floater", «Sometimes somebody wants you to give something up / And tears or not, it's too much to ask».

IS THE PARLIAMENT STILL NECESSARY?

Ore 19:00 Plenary

In collaboration with Intergroup for Subsidiarity and SkyTg24 First Session: Luigi Di Maio, Minister for Foreign Affairs; Roberto Speranza, Minister of Health. Second session: Maria Elena Boschi, Leader of Italia Viva in the Chamber of Deputies; Graziano Delrio, Leader of the Partito Democratico in the Chamber of Deputies; Maurizio Lupi, President of Intergroup for Subsidiarity; Giorgia Meloni, National President of Fratelli d'Italia; Matteo Salvini, National Secretary of Lega; Antonio Tajani, Vice President of Forza Italia. Introduced by Giorgio Vittadini, President of Foundation for Subsidiarity. Moderated by Giuseppe De Bellis, Director of SkyTg24. During the acute phase of the pandemic, there was a strong comeback of a major debate, which had already started in 2008/2009 if not even earlier: what is the role of the Parliament? Is the choice only between the simple approval of the government's decisions and a too often quarrelsome opposition? Is it still conceivable a Parliament in which can coexist several views but which shares a common position on crucial issues that are relevant for the future of the whole country? Can we still imagine about meaningful and significant bills? Does the democratic debate still occur at its highest and most relevant form within the Parliament or has it shifted into media, social media and web platforms?

Free from the limits of what is within our technological and even conceptual reach, science fiction can grasp deep questions affecting our present and our condition as human beings, through stories that connect with our relationship to the unknown, to immensity, to the future, to the danger, to what is "radically different". What is the relationship between science and science fiction? What is the secret of its charm?*

50 YEARS OF REGIONS: THE ARCHITECTURE OF ITALY PUT TO THE TEST

Ore 11:00 Plenary

In Collaboration with Gruppo Maggioli, Cassa Depositi Prestiti and SkyTg24

Invited speaker Sabino Cassese, Emeritus Judge of the Constitutional Court of Italy and Professor of Global Governance at the School of Government, LUISS Guido Carli. Stefano Bonaccini, President of Emilia-Romagna Region; Massimiliano Fedriga, President of Friuli Venezia Giulia Region; Maurizio Fugatti, President of the Autonomous Province of Trento; Jole Santelli, President of Calabria Region; Giovanni Toti, President of Liguria Region; Luca Zaia, President of Veneto Region. Introduced by Andrea Simoncini, Vice President of the Meeting for Friendship Amongst Peoples Foundation, Full Professor of Constitutional Law at the University of Florence. Moderated by Fabio Vitale, Journalist for SkyTg24.

In recent months—particularly following the health emergency—macroscopic tensions have reemerged in the State-regions relationship which require reflection, beginning with Article 5 of the constitution: “The Republic is one and indivisible. It recognizes and promotes local autonomies, and implements the fullest measure of administrative decentralization in those services which depend on the State”. If there exists in all political systems a “physiological” dialectic between centralized power and local autonomy, it cannot escape careful observation that even 50 years after the establishment of the Regions, a completely convincing approach has not yet been found. Even the reform of Article V of the Constitution in 2001 remained unfulfilled and left a gray area between federalism and centralism, without producing a coherent architecture capable of effectively serving the common good.

Massimo Clementi, Full Professor of Microbiology and Virology at the Vita-Salute San Raffaele University; Antonio Conti, Referente Sistema H4C; Alberto Deales, Chief Medical Officer of Policlinico Umberto I.

The clinical pathway and safety of hospitals, clinics and workplaces, and even the majority of public spaces, is influencing and radically changing our work and habits. What are the correct innovations and protocols that can grant us the possibility of not living in fear? Hospitals and companies are not changing perfectly, but are attempting to respond to a changing reality. A positive attempt, which can, and must be, the beginning of a journey.

MOVING FORWARD INTO THE FUTURE: AFRICA AND NEW TECHNOLOGIES

Letizia Moratti, President of E4Impact Foundation; Bitange Ndemo, Professor of Entrepreneurship at the University of Nairobi's Business School. Introduced by Giacomo Ciambotti, Research fellow ALTIS, Università Cattolica and E4Impact Foundation. In a climate of general carelessness and faced with the major challenges of our times, a new corporate development model, resulting from the bold initiative of individual free and responsible subjects, tries to make its own way in order to contribute to the common good. This is particularly evident in sub-Saharan Africa where the E4impact Foundation carries out corporate training activities in order to improve professional skills and strengthen personal initiative. Within this context many social enterprises were established and technological integration seems to play a crucial role for their further development. The guests of this session will share their first-hand experiences in the field of sustainable development accompanied by those who support them in their small but fascinating entrepreneurial adventures.

DEVELOPMENT, SUSTAINABILITY AND SUBSIDIARITY: MAKING A DIFFERENT FUTURE POSSIBLE

Ore 17:00 Plenary

In collaboration with Eni, Generali and Foundation for Subsidiarity

Domenico Fanizza, Executive Director for Italy, Portugal, Greece, Malta, Albania, and San Marino at International Monetary Fund; Enrico Giovannini, Full Professor of Economic Statistics at the University of Rome "Tor Vergata" and Spokesman of ASviS (The Italian Alliance for Sustainable Development); Stefano Zamagni, Full Professor of Political Economy at the University of Bologna and President of the Pontifical Academy of Social Sciences. Introduced by Giorgio Vittadini, President of the Foundation for Subsidiarity. Moderated by Elisabetta Soglio, Manager of Buone Notizie newspaper.

The ongoing debate on the limits of the neoliberal development model, made evident with the economic-financial crisis which exploded in 2008, led in 2015 to the creation of the 17 Sustainable Development Goals contained in the UN 2030 Agenda. Sustainability, now also on the agendas of multinational companies, seeks to reconcile the economic and social-environmental spheres. The more we analyze the conditions needed for real social and environmental sustainability, the more it emerges that it cannot be decreed from above, but rather depends on individuals and intermediate bodies truly capable of creating and innovating. It is for this reason that the need to rediscover the link between development, sustainability and subsidiarity arises.

SCHOOLS ARE BACK ON TRACK. EDUCATIONAL EXPERIENCES AND AUTONOMY

Ore 19:00 Plenary

In collaboration with CdO Opere Educative, DIESSE, DiSAL, Il Rischio Educativo

Introducing Carlo Di Michele, DIESSE President.

COVID-19 unforeseen drama generated in schools another unforeseen fact, the awakening of awareness and free and spontaneous initiative of people that got involved and discovered again and re-interpreted educative relationship. A way to face emergency that generated new experiences of meeting also at distance, new trails of educational research, new teachers and head teachers initiatives aimed at building formative opportunities, involving families in new ways of educative alliances. All this happens without neglecting to recognize the fatigue in involving students lacking of connecting instruments and those with learning or social problems, without neglecting also difficulties in re-thinking didactics and schools bewilderment in dealing with rules sometimes unclear. A general rehearsal that revealed, as has happened never before, how school autonomy is a resource and an instrument suitable to support protagonism of individuals, that has to be sustained and enhanced not only in the perspective of the start of the new school year but also as occasion of renewal of public school system: state schools and state recognized schools.

The fact that half of the worldwide population was lockdown at home and that the social and economic life was put on stand-by has been an unprecedented historical event. Millions of people started to look at their own life and relations in a new way. So what has changed and what is it going to change on the existential and social levels? What are going to be the consequences for politics and the economy? Is this the beginning of a new era for the world or are we going to go back to the past? Was this a fruitful crisis generating a new life approach or was it just a survival crisis now bringing us back to the previous world?

Introduced by Andrea Simoncini, Vice President of the Meeting for Friendship Amongst Peoples Foundation, Full Professor of Constitutional Law at the University of Florence and Mario Biggeri, Associate Professor in Development Economics at the Department of Economics and Management at the University of Florence.

Right now the whole world has to address a big question. It is not about how to get the economy running again. Luckily we know the answer. Our past experiences have helped us to develop a general prescription to revive the economy. The big question that we have to answer is: Do we take the world back to where it was before Coronavirus came? Or, we redesign the world? Decision is entirely ours (extract from the essay by Muhammad Yunus published on La Repubblica of April 16, 2020).

Andy Bow, Senior Partner at Foster+Partners; Andrea Gnassi, Mayor of Rimini; José Luis Martínez-Almeida, Mayor of Madrid; Giuseppe Sala, Mayor of Milan. Moderated by Emmanuele Forlani, Director of the Meeting for Friendship Amongst Peoples Foundation.

In recent decades, many cities around the world, despite contradictions and open problems, have become increasingly attractive places. Spaces chosen to live, build, invest. Tourist and cultural destinations to visit, workshops to experiment with forms of sharing and social organization. However, the images of those same semi-deserted cities during the lockdown have left their mark and at the same time raised new questions about the type of urban development to strive for in order to respond to people's desire to live better and face the challenges of our time.
